BALTZER & DODDS.

The United States Government has Opened a New Field of Industry.

When the agricultural department at Washington announced the intention of taking fifty new graduated young men and women from the agricultural colleges throughout the country and actually paying them salaries, it was a move on the part of the government. The situation was this: There is no school or university in the United States where specialized training can be had along the many lines of research being pushed by the department, so that there was no source from which it might draw when in need of available men. This country is constantly called upon to send out its experts, at higher salaries than they receive here, to South Africa, to Hawaii, to New Zealand, to Japan. The demand is greater than the supply, and to meet this demand it has become necessary to educate other experts at government expense.

But the new profession of forestry is open not to fifty, but to practically as many as will equip themselves. The government will train as many in forestry as in the agricultural lines, but for training for the latter is only possible in the department, while for the former opportunity is wider. There is such a lack of foresters it will be many a year before enough can be produced for the work ahead, and many more years are the profession will be full. The waste and depletion in the timber lands is of such vast and alarming extent the government is forced to take steps toward their preservation.

Take the pine, for example. No tree, perhaps, in the world contributes more to the wants of mankind. The aromatic odor of the pine is beneficial to sufferers from consumption or asthma, the timber is equally good for building or for cabinet work; the roots and bark have medical and chemical properties—lantham is made from them; the bark makes the highest grades of charcoal; alcohol and creosote are obtained from the sawdust, and the sap or gum affords spirits of turpentine and resin. From the Potomac to the mouth of the Mississippi, to a distance of 150 miles back from the sea, this heavy border of potential green fringes the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

The southern forests of yellow pine constitute the largest part of the turpentine timber of the whole world. Yet in the matter of logging alone—the old-fashioned way—the estimate loss of nearly valueless—the estimate loss of last year was over $13,000,000.

There are nearly 50,000,000 acres of national forest reserve in the United States, and nearly 40,000,000 acres of government forest in the Philippines requiring attention—making another need from afar for our trained men. Besides this, different states and private owners are taking active interest and applying to the forest bureau for similar working plans. The number of foresters being educated at Washington and maintained in the field together to meet the demand is about 100. In time they will become experts, drawing good salaries for work which is apparently limitless, and in a profession where there is no prospect of crowding.

DOUKHOBORS RELIGIOUS FANATICS MARCHING IN SEARCH OF JESUS.

Yorkton, Northwest Territory, Nov. 1.—The Doukhobors army was yesterday at Salt Coast, thirty miles on its way to Winnipeg. Seven hundred men, almost without food provisions, scantily clothed, frenzied with religious mania and in a pitiable state of exhaustion, will attempt to reach that city, the police and the government will not interfere.

For nearly thirty hours the fanatical army has practically fasted and gone without sleep. Hour after hour the Doukhobors have been singing and praying. Thursday night, when within a few miles of Salt Coast, they slept in the open air in the ditches beside the railway tracks. A train of their unbecomingly dressed, or standing stoically in the cold night air, with arms folded and apparently in prayer.

The citizens of Yorkton have only one opinion about the Doukhobors—they say they are madder than March hares, and that they will, if they do not succumb, become uncontrollable.

Before leaving Yorkton Wednesday evening, after an attempt by Mr. Speers, a colonization agent, to stop them, the Doukhobors bought about $2,000 worth of new clothing. As they proceeded on their march their religious frenzy increased, and they threw away hats and shoes, retaining only sufficient clothing to cover the body. A few stragglers on which night on the prairie. Mr. Speers, fearing trains might run them down, instructed conductors to keep a sharp lookout for them.

FETTERED STATE OF WOMEN.

The situation today is, perhaps, more complicated than at any time since the fanatics started on their weird march. About 1,100 Doukhobors, women and children, are huddled like cattle in four buildings in this town. Two of the women are apparently hopeless lunatics. One proclaims herself the mother of Jesus, and the other wretches incessantly on the floor moaning piteously.

Most of the women are poorly clad, and are in a state of nervous debility, as a result of their long march, loss of sleep and lack of food. They were forced into shelter by the officials, but did not break their fast for many hours, asserting that they wanted to live as Jesus did—without food.

The majority, said they would continue the march with brothers, fathers, husbands and sons in search of Christ. Their infants are sick from exposure and hunger, and the mortality will be terrible if they persist in their mad intention.

The wild glare of approaching insanity glimmers in many of the women's eyes. Rest, food and speedy relief are necessary to keep the women from a terrible death.

Women with half-starved features and an almost to skin and bone lay in some instances on the hard beds in overcrowded rooms, with babies their breasts. Children of all ages are crowded closely together.

When dressed by an interpreter to-da the women aroused themselves with an effort. When the subject of their religion was brought and they were asked their intentions, they became new beings, animated and enthusiastic.

"LOOKING FOR JESUS."

"Where are you going and what is to become of you?" was asked of a good-looking girl, who said she was only 17 years old and a wife.

"We are looking for Jesus," she simply but earnestly replied.

"Where do you expect to find him?"

"We don't know; God is good and will guide us."

"Will you go with your men on the march?"

"Yes."

"You will die if you go on the march in your condition."

"I do not fear. We will die for Jesus sake."

Another place a woman, disheveled and half-dressed, writhed in mortal agony on the ground.

Grouped around her were young men and children.

Expressing the most intense sympathy. From tiers of benches stretched out their eyes watched the procession in the hall a still sadder scene witnessed, for a woman was pleading face whose husband had not altogether believed her story. She had an earnest audience, who seemed to believe her story.

Mr. Speers, in describing the march of the Doukhobors, said:

"They came along slowly like a black cloud low down on the prairie, thirty or forty abreast. The procession was headed by an old man with flowing white hair. He was in his bare feet and was chanting and waving his hands. Following came the choir, a blind led by two stalwart Russians—and a few stragglers on which the progress was slow, and the singing most doleful, but the un-musical sound never ceased. The choir, I was informed, repeated again and again the words:

"My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? Why art thou so far from helping me and from the words of my roaring? Our fathers trusted in thee early, trusted and thou didst not deliver them. They cried unto thee and were delivered. They trusted in thee and were not confounded."

"Methodically," continued Mr. Speers, "the army advanced toward me. I addressed the leaders, and the only satisfaction I could get was that they were going out to preach Christ."

FORCE MAY HAVE TO BE USED.

"The condition of the marching army could not very well be worse. The fanatics do not speak English, have no provisions nor clothing and have no definite destination. The cold weather may bring them to an accounting, but I doubt it. Their leaders, Odmeroff, Dendroff and Zebroff, should be arrested. Force will have to be used eventually, as the situation hourly becomes worse."

"When I asked the leaders how they expected to get food, they replied, 'From heaven.' As no provisions rained down on them before they left here, they seemed disappointed. All they had here were apples, raw potatoes and peanuts."

A Doukhobor laborer, who arrived from Winnipeg Thursday, appealed to an interpreter to induce his young wife, who had joined the fanatics, to return to her home at Terpenite. All arguments were in vain, however. The woman was weak and emaciated from hunger and loss of sleep. The craze has separated hundreds of relatives.

The Swan Lake immigration agent has arrived at Yorkton, but has been unable to induce any of his people to return. Only a few, he says, will consent to go back to their villages. The McNabb, member of the Territorial Parliament for Salt Coast, wires from that place:

"Five hundred male Doukhobors have just arrived. They halted in Main street and are singing hymns. They camped five miles out last night. They state their mission is to Christianize the world."

H. C. AMBERG.

Some Good Conundrums.

What is it we often tell others to do and can't do ourselves? Stop a minute.

Why are teeth like verbs? Because they are regular, irregular and defective.

Why is a spider a good correspondent? Because he drops a line at every post.

What is that which the more you take away from it the larger it grows? A hole.

Why were gloves never ment to sell? Because they were made to keep on hand.

Why is a poor friend better than a rich one? Because a friend in need is a friend indeed.

Which is the only way a leopard can change his spots? By going from one spot to another.

Why is the Danish coast a bad place to go for a quiet holiday. Because of the sound which is there.

What is the best early closing movement? To go to bed at 10 o'clock and close your eyes in sleep.

What is it we all like to have, but never like to keep? A good appetite.

Why is a cornfield like a galvanic battery? Because it produces shocks.

When is a woman like a newspaper article? When she appears in print.

Why is there never anybody at home in a convent? Because it is a nun inhabited place.

POPE LEO AT HOME.

Leo XIII. bids fair to become one of the wonders of the world. He has celebrated his ninety-third birthday, and if appearances may be trusted, he will have very many more. This fact he rather ostentatiously flaunts in the face of those who come in contact with him. For instance, at the reception he gave on his birthday he entertained several people at some length with his beauties of my garden that next year I shall receive there, and let a breath of my flowers come to outsiders. Alas! that my grapes will not be ripe."

This was an allusion to his own particular vineyard, which he planted himself and which he keeps under lock and key. "If it is a success," he went on, "we know that I may not make it a yearly custom."

The Pope is, in fact, devoted to outdoor life, but can not or is not allowed to indulge in it much. He has now arrived at an age when he no more feels the heat, but is very sensitive to cold, so that when one sees it said in the papers that he can not go to his Summer house, it is not for fear of the heat, but that he may not be exposed to any small change in the temperature, and because once out of the Vatican it is by no means an easy matter to induce him to return, and if he lingers one moment too long the sun goes behind the trees and he runs imminent risk of a chill.

When in a particularly jocular mood he makes reference to the solitude with which he is surrounded, and says he is grateful, but adds, with great appreciation, "They want to persuade me that I am a delicate old man, but my span of years goes to prove that if I am old I am not delicate,"—Fall Mail Gazette.

Clean Sweep.

The Democrats came near making a clean sweep in Kentucky last Tuesday, electing 10 of the 11 Congressmen, and all three of their candidates for the Court of Appeals. The State is now back to her old Democratic strength, which she maintained before the party was torn by acrimony and divisions. And so Kentucky will stand when the Democracy is united.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT TRUSTS.

Only The Courier's Opinion.

The Democratic party, since pure, is not opposed to combinations of capital. Such combinations in firms, partnerships, companies and corporations, are absolutely essential to the prosperity, development and progress of the country. And democracy would contribute in every way possible to individual and collective prosperity. However, free competition is a fixed principle of Democracy. Therefore, a Democrat believes that any law or policy that prevents free competition, or that gives one class an advantage over another class, is wrong. Hence that a small combination should have an equal chance with a big combination, that is to say that the law should give the big combination no advantage. Whenever any combination gets to be so big that it controls the price of any necessary product, then it can and does kill off any and all competition, and Democracy then holds that the people should be protected. In this there is no enmity to the rich, no antagonism to corporations or to the combinations of capital, unless such results in crowding out all legitimate competition, and then the interest of the people require that they should be checked and restrained for the general good.

THE EXPANSION POLICY.

Only The Courier's Opinion.

Up to the war with Spain, the Democratic party had acquired nearly all the territory that had been added to the original 13 colonies. Hence it was the party of expansion. At the close of the war with Mexico it was bitterly denounced as such. At the beginning of the war with Spain the immense majority of the people would have endorsed the policy of acquiring the Philippine Islands. The Courier still thinks it was a wonderful policy. But in the war previously acquired territory from Mexico. Henceforth it is only a question of how to deal with the people of these Islands. The Democracy can not believe in holding these people as perpetual subjects. The Republic can not exist half free and half slave. As the Republicans used to tell us, the Philippines should have every advantage and encouragement in the pursuit of happiness, property and liberty. The treatment accorded Cuba is a good example. Or the treatment accorded the territory acquired from Mexico. These people are human beings, they are children of the same God we worship and are entitled to every blessing possibly to be accorded to them.

ALL ABOUT STRIKES.

Only The Courier's Opinion.

It is sound Democratic doctrine that all classes of property and property rights should be securely protected and guaranteed. Without such safeguards no political party can serve the best interests of the people, or long enjoy the people's confidence. The smallest property owner should be protected, and so also should the millionaire and the multi-millionaire. The same laws should apply to each, and the full power of the Government should protect each and all alike. But a man's labor is property just as much as houses and lots and stocks and bonds. It is all the property that a vast number of people have. To a legitimate extent it has the same rights to combine as has capital, companies or corporations. Each man has the right to control his own labor, and to combine with others for mutual interests, but it has no right to control the labor of others who do not want to combine or join their unions. When a strike occurs there are differences existing between the operators and the employees. Both sides have rights, and Democracy teaches that both should stand equal before the law and both be equally guarded. These strikes are always unfortunate, costly and often ruinous. The differences attending them are complicated, so that in guaranteeing the rights of one side you do not infringe upon or injure the rights of the other. Hence, Democracy should favor wise, impartial, independent Arbitration Boards, with the view of preventing strikes, or failing to fairly settle them when on. It is probable that strikes, like many other things done away with, therefore the best that can be done, is some arbitration that is fair, firm and positive, backed with the power of the Government, State and National.

The result of the general elections throughout the United States, Tuesday, shows that the Republicans won, but by greatly reduced majorities. Their majority in the Lower House of Congress was cut down from 41 to 15 or 20. It was in the election of Congressmen that the great interest centered. Up to two weeks ago few Democrats had any expectations of victory, but the tremendous gains that then turned towards the Democrats built up the highest expectations.

The greatest disappointment to Democrats will be our failure to carry the State of New York. The Democrats had a strong ticket in that State, and the party practically united. But while the Republicans carried the State, the Democrats gained in Congress, and henceforth New York is at least a doubtful State.

The Democrats in addition to general gains, held all the old Democratic States.

The Democratic party is in better fighting trim now, more nearly united, and thereby gives better warrant for future victories than any time since 1892.

HOW TO LIVE LONG AND WELL.

What one thing do you think is most conducive to longevity? Probably the answers to this question would be almost as numerous as the persons who made them. Two prominent Boone county (Missouri) septuagenarians and one octogenarian were asked this, and it is an interesting fact that most of them think hard work is essential to long life.

"Judicious exercise is the basis of long life," says R. B. Price, aged 70, president of the Boone County National bank. "If you will saw your cook good you will add ten years to your life. Do not quit work. Old age comes on more rapidly to those who are out of active business than to those who work hard."

"Go to bed early and get up early," is the first rule which John Butler, aged 77, would lay down. "Never stop to loaf. Let liquor alone. Wear out, but do not rust out. Liquor and laziness cut many people's lives short."

"My prescription for long life is hard work," says Edward Farley, aged 77. "When I lessen my work I get in poor health."

"Take physio to the dogs," advises "Doc" Miller, aged 70, the well known Christian minister. "Keep in good humor and you will keep in good health."

"I believe moderate eating is the secret," declares R. L. Coleman, aged 78 years.

"Eat sparingly," says Col. W. F. Switzer, the historian of Missouri, aged 81. "The first essential to longevity is to be organically sound. Do not worry."

"A good inheritance," is the opinion of Wm. L. Parker, founder of Parker Memorial hospital, "is the surest way to longevity. Men live too fast, although they really do not work as hard as they once did."

"It is generally thought that a quiet life is the healthiest," says the Rev. J. M. McGuire, aged 72, "but this is a mistake. Pure air, perhaps, is the best thing for health. Business life will not tell on a man's health, provided it is systematic."

"Behave yourself and go straight along," is the counsel of L. Carlos, aged 76, a veteran of the Mexican and civil wars. "I don't think there is anything in inheritance as to living long."

Professor C. C. Breckinridge, who is 75, gives this prescription: "Eat what you want to eat, drink what you want to drink, take care of yourself, and don't worry. I have always taken plenty of exercise and still take it."

George W. Harrell, Sr., aged 75: "Early to bed and early to rise. Don't take anything you can't digest. Exercise all the way in the open air."—Columbus (Mo.) Herald.

A VOICE FROM OLENEY.

(Union City Commercial.)

Ex-Secretary Olney still appears to be the more conservative element of the Democratic party the proper man to head the national ticket. He is no turn-of-the-moment politician, but a man whom the people can trust. His will make an ideal President in just such crises as appear to confront us very soon in the solution of the trust and labor problems. Hill is a brilliant legislator, but lacks the quality of greatness which makes a statesman. They would be impregnable alike to sophistry and allurements of power.

The chairman of the National Democratic Committee still claims the next Congress will be Democratic by from 4 to 10. The newspapers of the country generally concede it to the Republicans by a close vote.

NEW YORK.

The latest is that the State election in New York will be contested on the grounds of gross fraud.

THE CONTESTS.

The talk of contesting the election for Governor in New York and California will probably end in talk. That there was fraud is most likely true, but the unravelling of such frauds is most difficult, and on account of party feeling next to impossible.

Virginia reports a decrease of the English sparrow and her sister states would like very much to know how she does it.

The Philippine war is at an end, and the only question now is whether it has ended for good and all, or has merely started on a series of farewell wars.

STRAIGHT TIPS AS TO LOW PRICES.

Who Started Low Cash Prices In Hickman?

From the day I opened my Cash Grocery Store in Hickman dates the lower prices for Groceries in Hickman. You know that this is a fact. Each week thro' the Courier I have argued to convince the public that the credit system was a heavy burden, and that I could and would show them the advantages of cash trade. In my sales you know I have proved this to be a fact by actual prices. Others have begun to see facts when I have demonstrated them, and have lowered prices on special articles. Bear in mind that my cash prices apply to any and everything in stock. Therefore come to see me, for if some cut on some special articles, I will meet their prices and may do some better.

FROM THE WORLD'S GRANARY.

(New York American.)

For the first time in the history of Western railway transportation, wheat grown east of the Rockies is being shipped to Pacific coast ports.
Some few years ago such a movement was predicted by James J. Hill as the result of the development of the American trade in the Orient.
Wheat is being bought by San Francisco shippers as far east as Minneapolis, an effort being made to obtain through freight rates by rail to the coast, and in steamer loads to Australia. If exports of gold to Europe from this center should assume any considerable proportions it will be fully met by the incoming gold from Australia, to pay for shipments of breadstuffs.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says
Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Miller, Mo. "I gave was past and the child recovered."

This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For

"It is announced that the Alabama Great Southern Railway will extend its Birmingham Akron service to Meridian, Miss., upon the establishment of fast mail service by the Southern Railway between Washington and Atlanta and night train, Atlanta to Birmingham, November 2. This will place mail into Meridian earlier than ever before and enable connection at Meridian with Alabama and Vicksburg Railway train leaving Meridian at 11:05 a. m., thereby placing mail in Jackson, Vicksburg, Shreveport, and, in fact, all points west of Meridian, twelve or fifteen hours earlier than at present. This is another case wherein the Southern Railway gives increased service and better facilities to the people in this section of the country, for by extending this service they do not only expedite the mails, but enable travelers to reach commercial centers much quicker than formerly."

FREE GRABBING LAWYERS.

Chattanooga News.
The Nashville American submits these remarks about the war on fee grabbing justices in this county:

"Chattanooga is not the only Tennessee city that is infested with fee grabbing justices of the Peace. But the fee-grabbing justice is no worse than his ally, the fee grabbing lawyer, the scavenger who instigates litigation for a portion of the 'take-out.' There are several of these fellows not a thousand miles from Nashville."

The American could have added with all truthfulness that the Chattanooga bar has been going after fee-grabbing lawyers lately. Some of them have been put out of business, one is in the penitentiary and a few others are being watched. It is only a matter of time until the profession will rid itself entirely of such practitioners.

Beautiful Clear Skies.

Hertine exerts a direct influence on the bowels, liver and kidneys, and strengthening these organs and maintaining them in a normal condition of health; thus removing a dangerous cause of yellow, mottled, green and more or less of all-colored skin and blackheads. 50c at L. H. H. Ellison's.

A New Town.

The Wickliffe Yeoman writes: "Trimbles of Mrs. A. M. H. lives at Merrillville, and about 600 acres of land lying on the north and south side of the branch road, now being built from Paducah to Cairo, was sold to Merrillville last Saturday week and sold 386 acres lying on the north side of the branch road to a Paducah syndicate, known as E. W. Smith and associates, for a cash consideration of $20,000. Stoke Payne a member of the syndicate, was here a week or so ago and worked up the deal. Of course the object of the syndicate is purely a speculative one, and they will not develop it as a business proposition from the place and divide the tract into lots to be sold."

A Dangerous Month.

This is the month of coughs, colds and acute catarrh. Do you catch cold easily? Find yourself hoarse, with tickling in your throat and a dry cough at night? Then, you should at once have a bottle of Hall's Honeycomb Syrup. J. A. Anderson, 354 West 10th St. Salt Lake City, writes: "We use Hall's Honeycomb Syrup for coughs and colds. It gives immediate relief. We know it's the best remedy for these troubles. I write this to induce other people to try this pleasant and efficient remedy." 25c, 50c and $1 at L. P. & W. S. A Startling Surprise.

Very few could believe in looking at A. T. Hoadley, a healthy, robust, and smiling of Tilden, Ind., that for ten years he suffered such tortures from Rheumatism as few could endure survive. But a wonderful change followed his taking Electric Bitters. "Two bottles wholly cured me," he writes, "and I have not felt a twinge in over a year. ENGLAND AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Major General Corbin has received a letter from Sir Thomas Lupton in which the General informed that Sir Thomas has greatly interested himself in the St. Louis Exposition. He informs the General that he has had an interview with King Edward and his Majesty has indicated that he will name a special commission to attend the Exposition and that the English Government will take steps to interest the people in the Exposition. It is expected that the Prince of Wales will be named as the head of the special embassy.

Last Saturday marked an epoch in the progress of the World's Fair propaganda in St. Louis. The press building, the first to be completed of all the buildings, was turned over to the World's Fair management and dedicated. In honor of the occasion, the editor of the Chicago Press Club by special invitation visited St. Louis as guests of the World's Fair management.

There is a gradual coolness slipping between the earth and Old Sol, in other words frost is appearing.

The festive mosquito is still in evidence, while the house fly is getting rheumatic.

Mrs. A. V. Underwood, the lady who raised the big pumpkin presented to Mr. Warren, has moved into her new purchase, the J. J. Young property formerly.

Corn gathering is the order of the day, and the upward tendency of that commodity adds zest to the labor involved.

New enterprises are the order of the day in Hickman, and the capital recently invested in improvements and the different branches of trade are an index of a healthy growth, but one of the most sorely needed enterprises is still lacking, viz., a good up-to-date flouring mill. Every farmer in the community feels the need of it, and many thousands of dollars are expended for mill feed and flour that could be kept at home if some enterprising individual or company would embark in the business. It all means let us have a mill, roller process, latest improved machinery and all.

CO-OPERATION AND ITS INFLUENCE ON AGRICULTURE.

Co-operation is really the one great weapon which has proven to be the great adjuster of disastrous conditions which confront the industry of agriculture. It is well known that the farmers of this nation and throughout the world are the helpless victims of every trust and combine that deals with the farmer in his journey from the cradle to the grave. He pays tribute to every industry in the land. He pays whatever price these trusts set on their goods, while he is obliged to step aside and let them set the price on the farmer's product, which they set without regard to whether the crop is large or small, whether the grain is good or bad, whether the price is high or low. These prices are made without regard to what it costs the farmer to raise their crop. But the fixed charges of handling the farmer's crops by the middlemen in its passage from producer to consumer is always the same. Transportation charges are the same whether the grain is good or bad, whether the crop is great or small, the same charges for elevator handling, storage, insurance, commission, etc., making 25 cents per bushel to land grain at New York from the farmer's local station in the average center of the wheat belt of the country. Exchange.

The above is a clipping from an Eastern paper. Next week, with the permission of the editor, we will have an original article on "Co-operation Among Farmers."

STEADFAST EMERSON ETHERIDGE.

(Hartford Courant.)

There were some things in his life the remembrance of which gave him pleasure to the end. One was that in Congress (the Thirty-third) where, with the other men described themselves as members of the Democratic party, the Republican party or the "American" party, he wrote himself down on the official record as a whig.—"Emerson Etheridge, Whig." The great and brilliant physician of Clay and Webster had dwindled to a single man, but in his political loneliness the one man was steadfast and unswerving.

NO COMPULSORY.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 4.—County Judge Lightfoot Monday rendered an important opinion in the case of Dr. Frank Boyd for the State board of health against Theodore Luttrell to force the defendant to have his children vaccinated and asked the court to apply the penalty because Luttrell had refused, Judge Lightfoot decided for the defendant, contending the State board of health had no power to make laws and enforce them, and held that the legislation was an undue burden on the board with power exceeded its authority.

THE PERSONAL RETAINER OF A LAWYER.

For twenty years United States Attorney General Knox was one of the most successful corporation lawyers in the United States. His personal retainers amounted to $60,000 a year. When President McKinley asked him to become attorney general in 1897 he declined, because he couldn't afford to exchange a personal income of $100,000 for a salary of $8,000 and a carriage. When the offer was made four years later he was better able to make the sacrifice, and he accepted.

THE RIGHT TO LABOR.

(Leslie Weekly.)

The right of the individual to sell his labor where and when he chooses is fundamental to the safety of the State. If that right cannot be protected under our republican system, then we should welcome the man on horseback.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Portland, Va. Pain Balm is an anti-septic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Cowgill & Cowgill.
